RESEARCH EXPERIENCES

Doctoral Researcher 2020 – 2024 (expected)

Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

- Developed a generic data-driven reservoir operation model (GDROM) that couples the hidden Markov model with decision tree model, and built an open dataset for empirically derived rules.
- Uncovered operation patterns from 450+ large reservoirs across the CONUS, and generated insights into the general modeling of reservoirs with different sizes, operation purposes, and regions.
- (Ongoing) Analyzed the pattern of regional water storage responding to long-term drought events across the CONUS, and developed a combined drought indicator based on the response pattern.
- (Ongoing) Investigated the impact of drought-induced water supply risk at basin level through enhanced hydrological simulation with realistic reservoir operation representation.

Master Researcher 2018 – 2020

Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

- Developed a web-based reservoir operation supporting tool that implements several generic reservoir operation models.

Senior Project 2017 – 2018

Department of Hydraulic Engineering, Tsinghua University

- Hedging operation for parallel-reservoirs system for water supply and flood control.
